ESPN to launch collegiate video game championship

2 ESPN will hold its first-ever college championship for competitive video gaming later this year, the TV sports network said on Tuesday, a high-profile esports event aimed at younger fans who spend more time with game controllers than baseball bats or hockey sticks. ESPN Events, a unit of Walt Disney Co.'s cable sports network that also produces a lineup of other sports events such as the Air Force Reserve Celebration Bowl, will produce the Collegiate Esports Championship (CEC). The showdown will be held in Houston at Comicpalooza at the George R. Brown Convention Center in May. Players will compete in five games: "Overwatch," "Hearthstone," "StarCraft II," "Heroes of the Storm" and "Street Fighter V: Arcade Edition." As professional esports tournaments have expanded in the last couple of years, so too have college-level games.

Trump blamed for blackout, Venezuela boots US diplos

3 Venezuela ordered American diplomats to leave the country within 72 hours on Tuesday after President Nicolas Maduro accused U.S. counterpart Donald Trump of cyber "sabotage" that plunged the OPEC nation into its worst blackout on record. Foreign Minister Jorge Arreaza said U.S. diplomats on Venezuelan soil must leave within three days, after talks broke down over maintaining diplomatic "interest sections" in the two countries. The U.S. State Department had announced on Monday it will withdraw its staff from Venezuela this week, saying their presence had become "a constraint on U.S. policy." Washington has taken the lead in recognizing opposition leader Juan Guaido as Venezuela's rightful president after the 35-year-old congress chief announced an interim presidency in January after declaring Maduro's 2018 re-election a fraud.

NBA probing Westbrook dispute with Jazz fan

4 Oklahoma City star Russell Westbrook said he was verbally provoked before directing a profanity-laced tirade at a fan during the Thunder's 98-89 win over the Utah Jazz on Monday in Salt Lake City. A reporter from the Deseret News tweeted a video of Westbrook's comments to the fan. "I promise you," Westbrook said to the fan. "You think I'm playing. I swear to God. I swear to God. I'll [expletive] you up."

"After the game, Westbrook gave his explanation: "How it started was, a young man and his wife in the stands told me 'to get down on my knees like you used to.' To me, that's just completely disrespectful. To me, I think it's racial, and I think it's inappropriate and insensitive. ... If I had it to do over again, I would say the exact same thing. I truly will stand up for myself and my family."

Federal prosecutors in Boston say up to 50 people fraudulently got their kids into elite colleges.

Hollywood actresses Felicity Huffman and Lori Loughlin were among 50 people charged by U.S. federal prosecutors on Tuesday in a $25 million scheme to help wealthy Americans cheat their children's way into elite universities, such as Yale and Stanford.

Federal prosecutors in Boston charged William "Rick" Singer, 58, with running the racketeering scheme through his Edge College & Career Network. His network served a roster of clients including actresses and chief

Huffman, Loughlin part of $25M admissions scam

Prosecutors said Singer's operation arranged for fake testers to take college admissions exams in place of his clients' children, and also bribed coaches to give admissions slots meant to be reserved for recruited athletes even if the applicants had no athletic ability.

Parents paid tens of thousands of dollars for his services, which were masked as charitable contributions, prosecutors said.

Singer is scheduled to plead guilty on Tuesday in Boston federal court to charges including racketeering, money laundering and obstruction of justice, according to court papers. He could not be reached for immediate comment.

Some 33 parents were charged, as well as 13 coaches and associates of Singer's business. Huffman and Loughlin were not immediately available for comment.

On a call with a wealthy parent, prosecutors said, Singer summed up his business thusly: "What we do is help the wealthiest families in the U.S. get their kids into school ... my families want a guarantee."

The scheme began in 2011, prosecutors said, and also helped children get into the University of Texas, Georgetown University, the University of Southern California and UCLA.

Part of the scheme involved advising parents to pretend to test administrators that their child had learning disabilities that allowed them extended time to take the exam.

The parents were then advised to choose one of two test centers that Singer's company said they have control over: one in Houston, Texas, and the other in West Hollywood, California.

The test administrators in the those centers took bribes to allow Singer's clients to cheat, often by arranging to have a student's wrong answers corrected after completing the exam or having another person take the exam.

In many cases, the students were not aware that their parents had arranged for the cheating, prosecutors said.

John Vandemoor, a former Stanford University sailing coach, is also scheduled to plead guilty to racketeering conspiracy charges.

FACTS ABOUT THE RESEARCH:

Researchers surveyed owners of more than 1,600 dogs of 50 different breeds.

Dogs ranged from just a few weeks old to 15 years old, male and female.

Owners evaluated their dog's personality and answered questions about pet's behavioral history.

Owners also responded about their own personalities.

"IN THE FUTURE, SCIENTISTS WILL EXAMINE HOW THE ENVIRONMENT OWNERS PROVIDE TO THEIR DOGS AFFECTS THEIR BEHAVIOR."

Your dog is just like you!

NEW RESEARCH ON PUPPIES' PERSONALITIES FOUND THAT DOGS CAN DRAMATICALLY CHANGE THEIR TRAITS DEPENDING ON THEIR RELATIONSHIP WITH OWNER.

A DOG'S PERSONALITY CAN CHANGE!

One of the first and the largest studies that examined changes in dog personalities was recently published in the Journal of Research in Personality.

"When humans go through big changes in life, their personality traits can change. We found that this also happens with dogs — and to a surprisingly large degree."

William Chopik, professor of psychology at Michigan State University and lead author of the paper.

WHAT DID THEY DISCOVER?

Scientists found correlations in three areas:

- Age and personality
- Human-to-dog personality similarities
- Influence of quality of relationship with owner on dog's personality

"Older dogs are much harder to train. We found that the 'sweet spot' for teaching a dog obedience is around the age of 6, when it outgrows its excitable puppy stage but before it's too set in its ways."

3 Things that change when you're a homeowner

NerdWallet is a personal finance website.

You signed the papers, got the keys and opened the front door. Now, that quaint little place is all yours.

But more freedom comes with more responsibility. A lot changes once you're a homeowner. Here's how to prepare for a few of the adjustments — emotionally and financially.

1. You think about money more often

Ideally, you start thinking about money long before you sign the papers for your home.

Say a mortgage on your dream house would be $2,000 a month, but your current rent is $1,500. You should live at the new expense level to test it out before you buy, says Marianela Collado, CEO and senior financial advisor at Tobias Financial Advisors in Florida.

For example, you could try putting the $500 difference into savings for several months to see if you can manage.

"You give yourself time to adjust to living within the new cost of housing," Collado says. "This way you start getting a feel for what the new budget is going to look like."

For an even more complete picture of your new budget, go a step further. Collado recommends calling local companies before buying a house so you can gauge how much you should expect to pay for monthly bills like water and electricity.

Your money mindfulness will need to continue after you've settled into your house and placed a welcome mat on the porch.

A budget needs to be revisited regularly, especially since you can expect home-related expenses to go up over time. It's crucial to have flexibility in your budget to cover an increase in utility expenses or a financial emergency.

"Financial planning is never a set it and forget it," Collado says. "It's so fluid. Life changes."

2. You need things you didn't before

New homeowners will big expenses, too. In an apartment, you may not have needed to purchase a washer, dryer or refrigerator because they were supplied for you. And you probably didn't need a lawn mower.

Depending on what you already own, expect to buy appliances for your new place. Start setting aside money for these items while you're saving for a down payment and closing costs. And keep an eye out for sales and deals.

But don't make major purchases until you move in, advises Rianka R. Dorsainvil, CFP, founder of Your Greatest Contribution, a fee-only financial planning firm. That's because you want your debt-to-income ratio to be as low as possible at closing.

"After you purchase the home and you've slept in it one night, do what you want," Dorsainvil says. "Buy the furniture. Finance it if you need to and [if] you can afford it."

3. You manage time differently

Once you've officially moved and sent out your change of address announcements, you'll quickly realize you're responsible for upkeep. That means you're on the hook when the water heater breaks or the air conditioner goes out.

It's not just repairs, either. Lipford points out other expenses like yard work and pest control. And for maintenance, you have two options: handle things yourself or hire someone to do it.

Managing a home is a financial balancing act, but you can view this added responsibility as a source of pride. Homeownership isn't right for everyone, but for those who choose it, the experience is unparalleled.

SPORTS

Josh Gordon will give it another go with the Pats.

matthew.burke@metro.us

The Patriots do not seem to place much value on the wide receiver position. In the past 12 months they traded Brandin Cooks, let Danny Amendola walk, and did not bat an eye when Josh Gordon left the team this past December.

Many have been making the case that the Patriots offense was actually better without Gordon as the Pats did not lose again after Gordon's last game playing (Dec. 16 at Pittsburgh). The stats don't exactly back up that claim as the team averaged 28.8 points per game with Gordon this season and 30.6

Patriots will need Gordon in 2019

Josh Gordon looks to haul in a pass against Miami last season.

GETTY IMAGES

points per game after he left the team. No question, the Pats certainly could have used his production in the Super Bowl against the Rams as they only put up 13 points.

The Patriots used a low restricted tender on Gordon on Tuesday, indicating that they think he will be able to play for them in 2019. Gordon, who remains suspended indefinitely due to another violation of the NFL's substance abuse policy, was appreciative of the move by the Patriots on Tuesday.

"Do not pray for easy lives. Pray to be stronger men," Gordon wrote on Instagram, quoting former President John F. Kennedy, before thanking the Patriots directly.

Tom Brady relied heavily on a banged up Rob Gronkowski and 32-year-old slot man Julian Edelman during the playoffs. So a jolt of fresh energy to the receiving corps would definitely be welcomed in Foxborough for 2019 but it's not quite clear if the Patriots are going to seriously address the position.

Bill Belichick surprised many in last year's draft when he tabbed a running back in the first round as for years the Patriots recycled running backs in and out - rarely targeting big names in free agency or wasting draft capital on the position. But the team reversed course with the Sony Michel pick, and it paid dividends this past season.

Maybe they'll look at wide receiver in the early rounds this year despite it being a mostly blah wide receiver class. If not, the Pats will again hop aboard the Gordon train, and hope again that it doesn't derail.

Kyrie Irving disputes a call during the game against the Los Angeles Clippers at TD Garden on Feb. 9, 2019, in Boston. KATHRYN RILEY

Celtics defense has been spotty at best

The Celtics gave up an obscene 140 points to the Clippers this week.

matthew.burke@metro.us

Much was made last season regarding Kyrie Irving's newfound commitment on the defensive end. The numbers have backed it up as the Celtics allowed 100.4 points per game as a team last season, good for second-best in the NBA. This year, the Celtics are giving up 107.1 per game but are still in the top 10 in team defense. Irving himself is tied for the team lead in charges with Marcus Smart, both of whom have 13 on the season.

"I watch Marcus slide his feet and be able to beat guys to spots and be able to take charges," Irving said earlier this season. "To be able to do that at 6-foot-4 with a great build like that, I'm like, 'Hey I could do that too.' So I just try to beat guys to the right spot as much as possible."

Charges, of course, aren't the be-all and end-all of team defense. The Celtics had a brutal team defensive performance Monday night at Staples Center against the Clippers as they gave up a whopping 140 points. It was the most points given up by a Celtics team since 1994.

The C's had no answers for guard Lou Williams in the Monday night loss as Williams hit on 14-of-20 from the floor and finished with 34 points. The Clippers also hit on 46.4 percent of their three-point shots in that one, indicating that the Celtics did a poor job of closing out on shots.

All told, though, the Celtics typically do well when they are involved in shootouts. In 10 of their last 12 wins, the C's have scored over 110 points. It's usually the low-scoring slugfests, of which there are many in the playoffs, that the Celtics struggle in.

Neither the Celtics or Bucks eclipsed the century mark in their showdown in Milwaukee on Feb. 21, and the C's fell by one. In the Celtics' last game that was played below 100, they also lost — a 97-92 decision to the Trail Blazers.

No doubt, the Celtics are going to have to tighten things up on the defensive end if they plan on making a lengthy playoff run.

The C's are back in regular-season action Thursday against the Kings (7:30 p.m., NBC Sports Boston). They currently sit 1.5 games behind the 76ers and Pacers in the race for the 3 and 4 seeds in the East.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS LAND COURT DEPARTMENT OF THE TRIAL COURT

Case No. 18 MISC 000615

To Anthony Butler and to all other persons interested.

A petition has been presented to said Court by Sean C. Norwood of Jamaica Plain in the County of Suffolk representing that he holds as tenant in common an undivided 50% percent or share of certain land lying in Jamaica Plain in said County of Suffolk, and briefly described as follows:

The land with the improvements thereon now known as and numbered 175 Heath Street in the Mission Hill Neighborhood of the Roxbury district of the city of Boston, County of Suffolk, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, being Lot No. 6 on a plan titled "Plan of the Fisher Estate, Boston, July 1890, William Bradford, surveyor," recorded with the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in Book 1950, Page 389, bound and described as follows:

Southerly By Heath Street, 40 feet
Easterly By Lot 5 on said plan, 106.39 feet
Northerly By Lot 16 on said plan, 38.5 feet, and Westerly By Lot on said plan, 108 feet.
Containing 4,204 square feet of land.

The street address of the Land is: 175 Heath Street, Jamaica Plain, Massachusetts 02130, setting forth that he desire that all the described land may be sold at private sale and praying that partition may be made of all the land aforesaid according to law, and to that end that a commissioner be appointed to make such partition and be ordered to make sale and conveyance of all, or any part of said land which the Court finds cannot be advantageously divided either at private sale or public auction, and be ordered to distribute the net proceeds thereof.

If you desire to object thereto you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Boston before ten o'clock in the forenoon on the 28th day of March, 2019, the return day of this citation.

Witness, Gordon H. Piper, Chief Justice of said Court, this 21st day of February, 2019.

Aries Look beyond what's right in front of you to get a different perspective on what's actually happening. Silence is golden and will help prevent an argument.

Taurus You'll get all the help you need if you ask for it. Don't be so stubborn that you miss out on something that can lead to excellent connections. Put your emotions on the sideline.

Gemini Focus on what you can do to achieve personal growth, inner strength and steady progress. Tamping down extravagant behavior is a good place to start.

Cancer An interesting concept will encourage you to change the way you do things. Take a close look at your finances and contracts, and make some adjustments.

Leo Interact with people who love to talk. Listen to what they say and assess what's useable. A romantic gesture will help you establish better relations with a loved one.

Virgo Get involved in activities and events that are geared toward learning information that could be useful to you moving forward.

Libra Explore possibilities and sign up for talks or speak to an expert. The more you know, the easier it will be to assess situations and make better choices.

Scorpio Dreams can come true if you work hard and do the right things. First of all, be reasonable, and secondly, take care of anything that might stand in your way before you begin.

Sagittarius Your emotions will cloud your vision. Someone will tell you what you want to hear instead of being truthful. Do some soul-searching before you commit to anything or anyone.

Capricorn It's time to make some changes that will improve your life. Try to find ways to spend more time working on projects that you enjoy.

Aquarius Relaxing at home with a loved one or clearing a space to start a new project will give you the incentive to pursue a dream.

Pisces A former co-worker will give you a lead that looks promising. A change of attitude will open up doors that were closed in the past. EUGENIA LAST
